COOL CORALS

From cute corals to tangerine, orange is taking over

BRYCE
DALLAS
HOWARD

Who says redheads can't wear orange? Bryce nails a fresh, summery take by choosing coral over red and we like it. Pair with soft hair and striking eyes.

EMILIA
CLARKE

We're so used to seeing Emilia with platinum locks for GOT we barely recognised her with this bright orange lip. The neon pops against her Brunette hair and blue eyes.

CHRISTINA
HENDRICKS

The key to this look is the pop of peach on her cheeks matching her lip colour. Note: the trend here is keeping corals for fair-haired beauties and pairing brights with Brunettes.

CARISSA

JOSH GOOT

Kate says: 'I love this whole outfit! It's dramatic on the red carpet and I love that she's toughened it up with the boots, which make it a lot more current with that gothic-floral vibe. So on point.'

MIRANDA

ZIMMERMANN

Kate says: 'Miranda rarely gets it wrong and she's nailed it again with this outfit. She looks like a bohemian goddess in this dress and she just oozes effortless beauty. Love it.'

JENNA
TATUM

It's hard work matching your lip to your dress. What a statement! She nails it by balancing the orange with bold brows and a thick flick of liner.

INSIDE THIS WEEK

It's not often we're shocked by a celeb split here at OK!, but the news of Gwen

Stefani's separation from Gavin Rossdale had us reaching for the tissues. Not only do they have three of the most adorable kids ever, their love has survived more scandals than a US politician – from gay confessions, to cheating accusations and even a secret love child. And let's not forget (and I'm totally showing my age here) that they were one of the coolest '90s couples in the world. Her, the peroxide-blonde, grunge chick who made every woman want to rock red lip; him, the swoon-worthy frontman for Brit rockers Bush. To find out what was behind their sad split, see our story on p8.

KIM

He COPI*Where's Kanye?*

'[I'm working] on it slowly, to make it an art project,' Kanye explains of the album that's been taking up so much of his time. He's also said to be on the verge of signing a deal to play a show in Israel in October – right at the pointy end of poor Kim's pregnancy!

Sister Khloé revealed Kim still has over three months to go. 'I think she is maybe five or six months [pregnant]'

With her second baby due in December, Kim Kardashian says there are times when her demanding life gets a bit much. 'I'm so tired today,' she tweeted on July 28.

The strain was clearly showing as Kim struggled with her energetic two-year-old daughter North West, and nephew Mason, five, during a hot family outing on August 2. Kim's baby bump looked more visible than ever as they attended a kid's birthday party in Woodland Hills, California, with the star donning comfortable sandals to relieve her aching feet.

But with North now in the terrible twos, it's little wonder the 34-year-old star looked harried as she tried to lift the cranky tot to carry her. Worse still? While Kim clearly needed an extra hand, her husband Kanye West was missing in action.

It doesn't help that Kim's become increasingly anxious about her burgeoning baby weight. The brunette bombshell – who is expecting a baby boy – recently complained that she'd gained 10kg. 'Kim is totally freaking out by how rapidly she's been gaining weight,' a friend says. 'She's wondering how the hell she's going to handle it.'

With weight gain and whispers that she could be carrying two babies, it's the perfect time for Kim

KIM STRUGGLES TO KEEP THE FAMILY

Mason showed his big brother prowess by leading North safely through the car park - bless!

Kim is helping Kourt out

Proving how close she is with her siblings, Kim put her own problems aside to come to the aid of her big sister Kourtney, who would certainly have been grateful when Kim took Mason off her hands for a few hours on August 2. Last month, Kourtney gave a shout-out to her supportive sis, calling her 'MVP' (Most Valuable Player) for celebrating Penelope's birthday with her.

to start slowing down. Instead, she was back to the gym on July 30, announcing via Instagram, "Treadmill time!"

While North has proven to be a handful, Kim is also helping out her sister Kourtney whenever she can. The 36-year-old star, who's mum to Mason, Penelope, three, and seven-month-old Reign, has been on single mum duty ever since she split with her boyfriend Scott Disick last month.

'We're a family that goes through so much,' explains Kim. 'We just support each other through everything.'

But while the Kardashian women are sticking together, 38-year-old Kanye's absence has been more conspicuous than ever. In between working on his new fashion collection, Kanye's been busy in the studio recording his new album Swish. That's when he isn't filming music videos at the LA County Museum of Art or planning performances around the world.

After her difficult first pregnancy, Kim admits she's 'a little nervous' about facing the same experience again. 'Kanye didn't help me last time,' says Kim, who struggled with confidence issues and body bullying in the lead-up to North's birth. 'He helped me right after. He was like, "OK, I can't take this anymore, I'm gonna help you."'

With her due date fast approaching it's time for Kim to put herself first. And the first step may be to get a proper rest! 'I think you need to go with... what your body tells you, and rest when you need to,' she candidly confesses. 'I'm really going to try to enjoy this pregnancy more and relax with it. Sounds like good advice - let's hope Kim follows it! ●

Kim was barely showing when five months pregnant with North, but this time (right), her bump is very prominent

HER TWIN SECRET

Five-and-a-half months into her pregnancy, Kim has well and truly popped. 'She looks huge to me,' commented one fan of her blossoming bump, while another added, 'last week no bump, but today it's massive.'

And now a friend tells OK! that Kim's huge baby bump could be due to some very exciting news!

'Kim's just over halfway done and her belly looks big enough to be full term. It definitely looks like she's carrying twins,' says the mole. With Kimye using IVF, twins 'was a very real possibility,' the friend adds.

Interestingly, Kim stopped talking about having IVF as soon as she fell pregnant. And though she denied on Twitter that she was carrying twins, those close to the family reveal this could be a Kardashian ploy to make the big baby news more exciting. 'Kim and her mum always have the same strategy when it comes to big news. They have no problem lying to the media and even to their friends and family if it means more bang for their buck when they do reveal their news.'

Gwen calls her sons with Gavin - Kingston, Zuma and Apollo (right) - 'the ultimate collaboration'

FAMILY UNIT

In January, a tearful Gwen admitted that she and Gavin 'both want the same thing. We both want to be married. We both want to be good parents, and so I feel really proud of what we've done together.'

The pair began dating in 1995. 'I threw a party in New Orleans just as an excuse to hang out with her,' Gavin recalls

Gwen admits, 'Finding that balance between work and family is the hardest thing I've ever done - by far'

THEY WERE THE ROCK-STAR COUPLE WE ALL WANTED TO BE, SO WHAT WENT WRONG?

I like to make my husband like me more, and he likes it when I'm wearing make-up,' Gwen Stefani smiled when talking about her husband Gavin Rossdale in 2012. Indeed, for 13 years, the A-list rock couple did the unimaginable - weathered the storms of celebrity and stayed together. But behind her big smile, the cracks in Gwen's marriage were getting bigger. And heartbreakingly, on August 4, the couple officially announced their plans to divorce, citing 'irreconcilable differences'.

'While the two of us have come to the mutual decision that we will no longer be partners in marriage, we remain partners in parenthood and are committed to jointly raising our three sons in a happy and healthy environment,' the No Doubt singer and her Bush frontman hubby said in a statement.

The couple are said to have been on the verge of splitting many times before, with Gwen revealing, 'It's certainly been challenging for us. We had to spend a lot of time apart because of our careers... that was hard for me.'

However Gwen, 45, still maintained that Gavin, 49, was the man of her dreams. 'Here was this successful, good-looking English guy who seemed to be interested in me. I couldn't believe it,' she previously admitted.

Gwen & Gavin

Despite the challenges, the singer stuck by Gavin, with whom she has three boys, Kingston, nine, Zuma, six, and Apollo, 17 months, refusing to give up on their fairytale romance. 'I don't know if I was a nerd in high school, but I definitely wasn't the super-cute cheerleader, so I never saw myself getting somebody like that,' she says.

But rumours began swirling that she was having trouble keeping him a one-woman man, and earlier this year Gwen opened up about the hurdles the pair had faced – including finding out 26-year-old model Daisy Lowe was Gavin's love child. 'It's certainly been challenging for us at times,' she said.

More recently, the singer hinted at the couple's problems. 'It's a miracle that we could stay together this long,' she said in February.

After it came to light that Gavin had had dalliances with cross-dressing singer Marilyn and Hole singer Courtney Love, Gwen was concerned more secrets would follow. 'It's getting harder for her to go through the motions with a man she sometimes feels like she doesn't even know,' a pal says.

And with so much going on, Gwen found it hard to enjoy life. 'I'm spread so thin, it's almost not fun,' she shared. 'I mean, how do you enjoy everything when you have so many plates spinning at the same time? Sometimes I feel completely overwhelmed.'

Even her ex-boyfriend and bandmate Tony Kanal saw the cracks beginning to form. 'She thinks she's failing at everything,' he said. 'It's hard to manage... She's got the band, her family, her husband, her clothing lines.'

Clearly the stress of keeping her marriage together, juggling an upcoming tour with No Doubt and being the best mum possible finally took its toll. ●

WHAT CAME between them

THE REASONS WHY THE COUPLE COULDN'T GO THE DISTANCE

Career differences

Gavin was once asked how he and Gwen made time for each other, to which he replied, 'We don't, that's why we've been together so long.' Indeed, between his tours and her juggling her L.A.M.B. fashion line and TV career, couple time was limited.

Daisy's mum Pearl, here with hubby Danny Goffey, claims Gavin said he'd never speak to her again if Daisy got a DNA test. 'He's kept his word,' she admits

His wild past

Gavin was forced to admit in 2004 that he'd fathered a love child, British model Daisy Lowe. Then in 2010, Gavin revealed he'd had a bisexual affair as a 17-year-old with cross-dressing singer Marilyn.

Cheating claims

In 2010 Courtney Love insisted she had an eight-month affair with Gavin. 'He got good in bed... maybe Gwen taught him, for all I know,' she said, adding, 'She does know.'

Drifted apart

Back in January, Gwen held back tears while talking about her scandal-ridden marriage. 'You're gonna get me crying... I'm going to get all emotional!' But she laughed it off that she was just 'proud' of her marriage.

'I'm in an excellent place now,' says Seal, who took in the sights of Positano with Erica

SEAL THE DEAL

After days of rumours, Erica and Seal's blossoming romance was first revealed during their luxury yacht trip in Italy's Positano. Things are heating up between the pair, who have seven children between them.

There's no doubt about it, Seal can't keep his hands off new girlfriend Erica Seal & Erica LOVE Boat!

FLAUNTING THEIR ROMANCE ON A YACHT
ON THE RIVIERA... SOUNDS FAMILIAR

Seal and Erica could be the modern-day Brady Bunch with their combined brood of seven Anything our exes can do...

James and Mariah set sail in June, smooching for the cameras aboard his superyacht Arctic P as they soaked up the sun in the French Riviera. While Seal's ex, Heidi, also got in on the yacht-loving action and snuggled up to her sweetie, art dealer Vito Schnabel, aboard Leonardo DiCaprio's luxury vessel in the South of France on July 23. Five days later she declared her love for her beau, instagramming, 'I love you my V.'

Their exes may have done it first, but Seal and Erica couldn't hold back their joy at taking their love public on a superyacht ex-wife Heidi Klum and their four children moved to Bel Air in 2013 – the same upscale LA neighbourhood where Erica lives.

Despite being linked to Orlando Bloom last year, this is 38-year-old Erica's first serious relationship since she split with her billionaire husband James Packer in 2013. And it's the same for Seal, who was last reported to be dating socialite – and Lara Worthington's former bestie – Hermione Underwood.

In what is surely a good indicator that things may be getting serious between the lovebirds, Erica even brought her three children – Indigo, seven, Jackson, five, and Emmanuelle, two – along for the luxury getaway. Something she wouldn't do lightly, considering she vowed her kids were her priority after her split from James. "The actions we take now, the way we behave, will affect three little innocent people for the rest of their lives," she said.

In another indication they're a perfect match, Seal took the same approach when he and Heidi Klum separated in 2012. 'As long as the children are happy, I'm happy,' said the star, who has been spotted bonding with Erica's kids – much to the former model's delight. The bikini-clad beauty was snapped grinning widely as she watched her new man play with Indigo and Jackson in the waters off Positano last weekend.

But was there another motivation behind the choice of trip? There are whispers that Erica wasn't happy about James's decision to flaunt his relationship with Mariah Carey – especially considering they were seemingly encouraging the paparazzi, who were trailing their vessel for days. So now that Erica has shown off her own new relationship in nearly exactly the same way, there's speculation she may be hitting back with her own public display of happiness. ●

DATE NIGHT

Days after he was with Mariah in Las Vegas, James was back on the arm of his ex-wife Jodhi Meares at a fundraising dinner in Sydney on August 1. Smiling for photographers and with their arms wrapped around each other, the pair who divorced over 12 years ago still looked very comfortable together. After the event, Jodhi caused even more of a stir by posting a quote on Instagram. 'I will remember the kisses our lips raw with love and how you gave me everything you had and how I offered you what was left of me,' read the words by Charles Bukowski. Fans were quick to guess that the 44-year-old was alluding to James in the post.

You couldn't get a much more romantic location – on board a luxury yacht sailing around the sparkling waters of the Italian Riviera. It was in this idyllic spot on July 30 that singer Seal and new love Erica Packer were snapped confirming their hot new romance with a passionate kiss – with onlookers revealing the pair were getting 'extremely intimate'. The following day, the duo were just as touchy-feely as they arrived in Positano, with the 52-year-old singer wrapping a protective arm around his new love.

While the match has come as a surprise to most, according to reports, Seal and Erica have been dating for a couple of months and actually have a lot in common. Both are single parents and met after Seal's

'Once you have a life here with somebody, that's obviously a total game changer,' Rose says of life in New York with Bobby Baby makes three?

If a little bundle of joy is on the way then the couple have plenty of practice working as a team. They have already done three films together! 'It's great,' Bobby says of spending so much time with his lady. Aww.

'I'm happy in my life right now,' a smiling Rose Byrne said in May this year. And why wouldn't she be! She has enjoyed success at the box office, is currently filming X-Men: Apocalypse and Bad Neighbours 2: Sorority Rising and has been in a loving relationship with actor Bobby Cannavale for the past three years. But the 36-year-old actress looked like she had something very special to smile about when she was spotted walking hand-in-hand on the streets of New York with her 45-year-old man last week. With a small bump poking from beneath her flowing dress, it appears we might be hearing a baby announcement from this pair quite soon!

Though the couple are super-private when it comes to discussing their relationship, Rose recently admitted that things were progressing nicely between them – revealing that Bobby had made a trip to Australia to meet her parents, and then hinting that she was enjoying the domestic life the pair have set up in America.

'I'm not a good cook, but seeing someone enjoy what you've made is so satisfying,' she says of her culinary triumphs.

And when it comes to where the couple would raise a child, Rose admits she now feels settled in America.

'Australia is my emotional home, and always will be, I think, but New York is where all my stuff is,' she says.

And it certainly sounds like the couple would make loving parents. Despite working in a crazy industry with long hours, non-stop events and locations across the globe, Rose says she and Bobby (who has a 20-year-old son, Jake, from a previous marriage) prioritise their relationship and always make time for one another. 'You've got to make the effort to make sure you're in each other's lives all the time,' she says. 'But it's not that hard. He's not on an oil rig; I'm not in the Congo.' ● way!

Scarlett is determined to have it all and says, 'I know that with that, there will be some sacrifices'

BABY NO.2 FOR SCARLETT?

'Oh, I don't plan anything. I'm terrible at planning,' Scarlett Johansson admits. Indeed, the mother of 11-month-old Rose didn't plan her first pregnancy and it looks like there could be a second on the way! The Captain America star was glowing as she headed to a U2 concert for a date night with her man, Romain Dauriac, and it was hard not to notice the little curve of her usually toned tum. 'The biggest joy that I have is looking at my daughter,' the 30-year-old says. 'When I'm just hanging out with her and we're doing silly stuff and if I make her laugh, the feeling of joy I have is explosive.' Imagine the joy two babies would bring!

Blake & Ryan NOT DONE!

Whether she's on the big screen or the red carpet, what Blake Lively really wants to do is expand her family with hubby Ryan Reynolds, 38. 'I never knew what I wanted to do for a living, but I knew I wanted to have a lot of kids,' the 27-year-old says. So it's unlikely daughter James, seven months, will be a single child. 'If I could spit out a litter of kids, I would,' she says. And with the slim star looking a little fuller in the waist, she might be well on the way already.

Reese & Jim POWER OF 4

'My older kids are so in love with their baby brother and help out so much,' Reese says of her children, Ava, 15, Deacon, 11 and Tennessee, two. After splitting from the father of her first two kids, Ryan Phillippe, the 39-year-old admits it was important she had a man in her life who loved children – enter Jim Toth. 'I got very lucky, and he's wonderful. And so wonderful with the children,' she says. So perhaps the brood is growing bigger!

Sam's heart?

WHO FOUND LOVE ON THE SHOW?

Sure there are 13 girls left on the show, but it's clear who Sam Wood's been smitten with from the start – Heather! And she has spilled the goss about their romance to OK!. 'Our first meeting was pretty electric, we had amazing chemistry which was really cool and unexpected,' she says. The filmmaker was shocked that the pair found a genuine connection on the show. 'I just thought it would be this cool thing that I did once, but the guy was a legend and we had a really good conversation. I got pretty lucky,' she says. However, Heather might need to watch out as it seems Bachie gets close to another brunette on an upcoming date (datecrashers alert!)....

And it's not just the contestants who have found love, host Osher Günsberg also has The Bachelor to thank for helping him find his lady, as he is currently dating make-up artist Audrey Griffen who he met on the set of the matchmaking show. 'There is a lot to be said by rolling over and putting your hand on the shoulder of your girlfriend lying next to you... For a long time I didn't have that,' he says. Aww!

IS SANDRA AN ACTRESS?

After episode one, fans were already suspicious of 27-year-old Sandra, her OTT behaviour and ridiculous fight with Reshael, 28. 'Sandra's got to be an actor put on the show for ratings. She's a nutcase!' one fan wrote on Facebook. So was Sandra asked to be on the show to stir the pot? 'I just want people to know that I'm there to have a laugh and I'm opinionated and I'm true to myself and that's the way you have to be,' Sandra tells OK!. BOOZING AND BULLYING

Former contestants have revealed that the best way for producers to get the tears and fights on camera was to fill up their glasses at the cocktail parties. 'The first cocktail party was held over three nights, including interviews,' Kara from Blake's season tells OK!. 'Subsequent parties would go from 7pm to 11pm. We are given an ample supply of alcohol. They do monitor us and cut us off if they think we have had too much, but I was always of the impression that people's personalities and confidence come out when alcohol is involved, so this was a major aspect of cocktail parties. On-set Secrets

- The production team are masters at creating drama, former contestant Kara Bramham tells OK!. 'They are very good at getting information out of us in our one-on-one interviews,' she says. 'By about week three, I think we were all so caught up in the process that it became easier for us to blurt out bitchy remarks.'
- What happens to the roses after the ceremonies? 'I still have my white rose, it's beautifully dried out,' Heather says.
- The girls have an expert team to help doll them up for the cocktail parties. 'Our dresses were pre-planned weeks in advance,' a former Bachelorette spills. 'Some girls were not happy with their dress choices, but we didn't really have much of a say.'
- Last year's Bachelor Blake Garvey was rumoured to have been paid $40,000 to do the show, with the ladies vying for his affections also receiving a tidy sum - 'several hundred per week,' according to one former Bachelor contestant.

Jen's ignored the cheating rumours and is making her children a priority

It's said Christine is keeping quiet after having signed a nondisclosure agreement with her former employers

What happened...

BEN & THE NANNY?

AFFAIR ALLEGATIONS CONTINUE TO HAUNT THE ACTOR

Rumours of a fling with his much younger former nanny continue to swirl for Ben Affleck, with Us Weekly controversially claiming he began a relationship with 28-year-old Christine Ouzounian while on a 10-month trial separation from his wife of 10 years, Jennifer Garner, 43.

'She's saying this is true love,' claims a friend of Christine's in the Us Weekly report. 'She says Ben really, really likes her' Pals further claim Jen fired the younger woman after discovering their affair during the family's trip to the Bahamas in June, but that didn't stop the attractive blonde from visiting Ben's LA bachelor pad on July 17. The nanny's pal also dishd that the pair were in contact via email.

While Ben's rep has slammed the reports, saying, 'The story is complete garbage', sources claim that communications graduate Christine was overheard on the phone at the Hotel Bel-Air on August 2 admitting that she and the actor are still in touch.

'Christine told her friend, "He's still in Atlanta; I just got a text from him," reveals the onlooker. Though Christine didn't mention Ben, 42, by name, she did discuss a complicated relationship! 'She added... "He told me he loved me, but he can't be with me under these circumstances," says the spy.

Meanwhile, Jen is heartbroken by the allegations, but most of all she's 'livid' that if the rumours are true, her three kids, Violet, nine, Seraphina, six, and Samuel, three, think of Christine as part of the family. 'It's just the biggest betrayal,' an insider spills.

Charlize & Sean EXES REUNITE...

Talk about awkward! Following their split in May, Charlize Theron and Sean Penn were forced to reshoot some scenes for their film The Last Face in South Africa, but the pair kept conversation to a minimum as they worked on the set.

Adding to the strain is the expansion of Charlize's family. The actress, who already has three-year-old son Jackson, has become a mum for a second time after she adopted a baby girl named August. The timing of the adoption has sparked rumours that Sean - who has two kids Dylan, 24, and Hopper, 22, with ex-wife Robin Wright

- was reluctant to have more kids. Charlize, 40, hinted at her baby plans just weeks before she broke up with the actor. 'I'm so open to anything in my life,' she confirmed in an interview in May. 'I was never like, "Oh God no, just one." I was always kind of open to whatever kind of happens.'

And while Charlize is focusing on family, it seems Sean, 54, is embracing the party life. In July he sparked dating whispers when he was seen dining with 35-year-old actress Minka Kelly, although she firmly insists he's just a 'friend'.

TESSA'S BABY PLANS

With her cancer in remission, Tessa James has plenty to smile about - the future looks bright, and she's ready to start a family with her hubby Nate Myles! The pair declined IVF treatment when Tessa was diagnosed with Hodgkin lymphoma last year, but the 24-year-old hopes motherhood is still in her future. 'There are high stats of people my age having had treatment, who have children,' she explains. Adds Nate, 30, 'We are both ready for the next period of our relationship.'

The Voice IS NAOMI A FAKE?

Aspiring actress and musician Naomi Price has sparked controversy by claiming she isn't interested in the show's main prize, a contract with Universal Music. 'I would do an album if it was a comedy album,' she tells OK!. While some fans were quick to praise the 31-year-old's August 2 performance of Don't Cry For Me Argentina, others question her motives. 'Naomi is fake fake fake,' one commented.

JAMIE'S NEW MODEL?

IT LOOKS LIKE THE MARRIAGE IS OVER FOR GOOD

There's still no official word of a split for Kate Moss and her husband Jamie Hince, but he sent her a crystal-clear message that their marriage is over – by cosying up to Victoria's Secret model Jessica Stam! Leaning up against a wall outside the Kibitz Room in West Hollywood, where Jamie's band The Kills had performed, the 46-year-old rocker didn't care who was watching as Jessica, 29, allegedly nuzzled his neck and caressed his cheek. 'What a shocker,' one fan commented, with another adding, 'How does he do it?' It's not their first meeting, as the pair have been snapped together several times at The Kills events since Jamie's 2011 marriage to Kate.

But Jessica isn't the only woman Kate needs to keep an eye on! With rumours swirling their marriage has been on the rocks since March, it's also claimed Jamie's formed a flirty friendship with model and DJ Lady Mary Charteris, who is also married. Meanwhile, Kate, 41, is laying low – with her ex, Jefferson Hack. 'He has been comforting her and helping her through her problems with Jamie,' a pal says. Jefferson, who is dad to Kate's 12-year-old daughter Lila, joined Kate as she boarded a plane on August 1, amid reports she's planning a summer escape. 'She is considering staying at the Chiva-Som spa in Thailand, which she's previously visited on a detox and wellness break,' a friend says. 'Her other option is to go to the Caribbean.'

Gisele hides any signs of surgery with a loose-fitting blouse

The limo driver she always uses while in Paris dropped her at her hotel after the reported surgery

Gisele's SURGERY SUBTERFUGE

'No way!' Gisele Bündchen scoffed back in 2008 when asked whether she'd go under the knife - she even named her mum as her inspiration for ageing gracefully. 'I asked my mother the same question and she said, "It's taken 58 years for me to look like this. You think I'm going to ruin it now?" She looks great, so I hope I will look the same.'

Fast-forward seven years, and the world's highest-paid model has gone to extreme measures to hide her reported cosmetic surgery shame during a visit to a Paris clinic on July 15. Wearing a burqa, her disguise caused outrage within the Muslim community, but getting caught out was the last thing on the Catholic girl's mind. An insider told Page Six she was 'concerned that her breasts had sagged after having two children,' so for her 35th birthday, she treated herself to a little nip and tuck, said to be worth about $11,000 - small change to Gisele who raked in $66.4 million in 2014.

Big congrats are in store for Ashlee Simpson and her hubby Evan Ross! The pair welcomed a beautiful baby girl on July 30.

A large, close-up photograph of Taylor Swift. She has long, wavy blonde hair and is wearing a light-colored, possibly pink or peach, dress. Her mouth is wide open in a 'fish face' expression, and her hands are raised with fingers spread, palms facing forward. She is looking directly at the camera with a shocked or surprised expression. The background is a blurred blue.

She exceeded all my expectations of rudeness and arrogance. It's hard to believe, but this is how a well respected fellow musician describes his encounter with America's sweetheart Taylor Swift.

Indeed the world recently saw Taylor put a rare foot out of place with her embarrassing Twitter feud with Nicki Minaj. The 25-year-old prompted an angry backlash after she called out Nicki, 32, over an imagined slight, when the rapper slammed the MTV Video Music Awards for favouring 'skinny' celebs. The rapper was actually trying to make a point about racism in the music business, and Taylor later admitted she 'missed the point'.

And then when Nicki confirmed she'd forgiven Taylor after her 'super, super sweet' apology, it appeared the popstar had escaped a sticky situation. But in reality, it had also showed the first few cracks in Taylor's picture-perfect image.

'She's no longer in the position of getting everything right,' explains Peter

Leader of the pack!

Taylor clearly chooses wisely when it comes to who is allowed in her pack of A-list buddies. 'I feel that Taylor has really taken control and said, "I'm going to get us all together... [and] make it very clear that friendship is powerful and women are magic,"' Lena Dunham, 29, says of the posse. However, insiders have hinted there may be a sinister undertone. Those close to the star have revealed that when her famous pals come on stage, she must check to see what they are wearing so she will always be the one standing out. And placed front and centre, of course!

FANS QUESTION WHETHER THE SINGER IS A MEAN GIRL IN DISGUISE

ailed!

STARS CALL OUT TAY TAY

NOT EVERYONE IS A MEMBER OF THE SWIFTY FAN CLUB!

Someone who's been on the receiving end of Taylor's wrath is Katy Perry - it's believed Tay wrote Bad Blood as payback for Katy hiring three of her dancers halfway through her Red Tour. 'Don't ever get into a feud with Taylor Swift,' says Katy's ex, DJ Diplo, who felt the wrath of Taylor's fanbase after he suggested she needed to get a 'booty'. Describing it as one of the 'biggest mistakes' of his career, Diplo says he's very relieved he's now back on her good side. 'Taylor Swift is very strategic with her friends and enemies,' he adds. 'I know a lot of stuff about her. And I'm scared. I'm scared for my life.'

Geordie Shore star Gary Beadle has described Tay as the rudest star he's ever met, and fans believe Grizzly Bear frontman Ed Droste was referring to Tay when he tweeted about an 'insanely powerful' celeb who was 'mean, rude, and arrogant' earlier this year. Then, last month he tweeted a magazine article about her 'Mean Girl' ways, adding he was 'obsessed that people are catching on'.

And most recently, Taylor assumed Nicki was referring to her when the rapper blasted the VMAs for favouring 'women with very slim bodies'. Swiftly responded, 'I've done nothing but love & support you,' but was left red-faced when Nicki explained the original tweet wasn't about her.

'Finding it ironic to parade the pit women against other women argument,' Katy tweeted in response to Taylor and Nicki's feud.

Times have sure changed since 2011, when Nicki, Katy and Taylor were all smiles at the AMAs

'I have a whole other story to tell, still feels unsafe tho. She frightens me genuinely,' Ed (below) tweeted.

Edward Droste @edwarddroste · Jul 25 Obsessed that people are catching on

Robinson, Popjustice.com editor. 'In the space of two tweets, she brought that era to an end.'

And while Taylor crafts an image of girl power, a Blind Gossip item last week hinted that a singer – which many fans suggested was Tay Tay – was 'VERY unhappy' that her golden girl status had slipped. According to the story, there have been lots of tears and finger pointing going on among the star's PR team after Taylor's carefully crafted image was compromised.

It's true that surrounded by a bevy of beautiful model pals and her handsome boyfriend, Calvin Harris, 31, Taylor's life appears to be a flawless world of parties, gift-giving and nights in with her cats. However, for some time now there's also been a constant undercurrent of something darker – from allegations that she strategically picks friends to claims that some stars are now actively 'scared' of her power within the industry. Then, of course, Tay's arch nemesis Katy Perry, 30, hinted the star was a secret

“ SHE EXCEEDED ALL MY EXPECTATIONS OF RUDENESS AND ARROGANCE

Mean Girl last year when she tweeted, 'Watch out for the Regina George in sheep's clothing.'

There's also been speculation that Taylor's actively surrounding herself with a hot and famous clique in an effort to prove that the once awkward teen singer is now a firm member of the cool kids club. But while she was once seen as a 'girl next door,' the fact that she now only invites rich celebrities to join her on stage may be driving a wedge between her and her fans, who loved her previous down-to-earth persona. 'She brags about her famous friends a bit too much,' noted one online commenter. 'I'm so tired of "look at my famous friends,"' added another.

Singer Ed Droste publicly slammed Taylor last week, calling her 'mean and calculated' and tweeting a link to a story about Tay and how her A-list pals are getting sick of her bad treatment and diva demands. 'Obsessed that people are catching on,' wrote Edward, who previously said Taylor 'exceeded all my expectations of rudeness and arrogance'.

Taylor's also been criticised for sexing up her look. The once demure star has been showing a little more skin on her recent tour – and fans have noticed. 'With each passing concert Taylor performs, her onstage clothing is getting skimpier and cheaper-looking!' one noted of the singer, who has always projected herself as being more conservative than most of her popstar peers.

Are Taylor's true colours finally being revealed... once and for all? ■

TOO GOOD to be true?

SOME BELIEVE THAT THE AMERICA'S SWEETHEART'S DO-GOODER IMAGE IS JUST FOR SHOW

Loving

Taylor's boyfriend Calvin can't stop gushing about his popstar love. The DJ admitted he is 'insanely happy with her' – she's clearly ticking the 'Best Girlfriend' box.

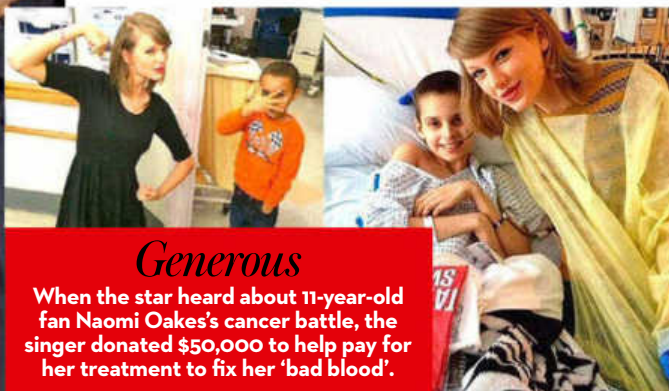

Dedicated

She would be nothing without her fans, so she makes time to show them some love whenever she can – and they love her just as much. One couple couldn't bear the thought of missing Tay Tay's concert so they decided to elope outside the stadium! Luckily for them, Taylor found out and invited them backstage.

Earthy

In her spare time, Taylor's duties include taking on the role of Godmother to Jaime King's three-week-old son Leo.

Generous

When the star heard about 11-year-old fan Naomi Oakes's cancer battle, the singer donated $50,000 to help pay for her treatment to fix her 'bad blood'.

Connected

Tay Tay ensures she's besties with plenty of A-listers. At the Grammys this year she was seen insisting to Jay Z that they have brunch – repeatedly.

'What I do know is I screw up, and I know that I'm working on myself to be a better person,' Shia says

THE BEST I CAN DO IS LEARN
FROM MY MISTAKES

I'm not a celebrity, I've kind of been under the radar; [that] has kept it easier for me to maintain a career,' a 20-year-old Shia LaBeouf admitted before he hit the big time with the blockbuster movie, Transformers. But almost 10 years later, Shia is on the radar more than ever – often for the wrong reasons. Just last week, he was seen displaying shockingly aggressive behaviour towards his girlfriend Mia Goth. The actor, 29, was caught on camera screaming at Mia while the pair were in Germany. 'I don't wanna touch you. I don't wanna be aggressive. This is the kind of shit that makes a person abusive,' he shouted, later telling bystanders, 'If I'd have stayed there, I would have killed her.'

This confronting video is the latest in a long line of controversial incidents involving the star, from aggressive motivational videos, to chasing a homeless man down the street, and being arrested while drunk and belligerent at a theatre. But where did it all go wrong for Shia?

'Being a child star [Shia landed his first role aged 11], it's difficult to understand who you are,' psychologist Sally-Anne McCormack tells OK!. 'Too much praise from a young age can cause negative effects later in life.'

At 23, Shia admitted being in the spotlight was taking its toll. 'I don't handle fame well,' he said. 'I have no idea where this insecurity comes from, but it's a God-sized hole.'

The Emmy Award-winning actor has pointed to his childhood as a possible reason for his unusual behaviour. 'I come from hippies,' he reveals. 'My dad was a wandering dude recovering from the war in Vietnam. And my mum, before she met him, had a head shop in Brooklyn. Bob Dylan used to come in and smoke weed. All her furniture hung upside-down from the ceiling. She was out of her mind.'

'Being raised with an alcoholic father and an underprivileged mother are very potential risk factors, which could have led to Shia LaBeouf's breakdown,' Sally says. 'Fame is a difficult thing

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

Shia was once a sweet, clean-shaven kid with an Emmy win for Even Stevens and a Hollywood romance with Carey Mulligan. 'Sensibilities, cultures, histories. There were differences, that's all,' Shia says of the break-up with Carey, who is now married to Marcus Mumford.

HE CAN'T STAY OUT OF TROUBLE

A LOOK BACK AT JUST SOME OF SHIA'S BIZARRE ANTICS

GIRLFRIEND ISSUES

His public fight with Mia wasn't Shia's first. In 2012, he was seen in tears fighting with girlfriend Karolyn Pho. Pals believed it was due to Shia insisting on taking part in real sex scenes for his film Nymphomaniac, but Karolyn denied that was the case.

'It's none of anybody's business. It was nothing affiliated with his movie,' Karolyn said of the fight

THEATRE ARREST

Having been arrested while drunk at a cabaret show and for spitting at a police officer, Shia told, 'Jail is quite scary. I was there for, it felt like forever. They put a Hannibal mask on me and a led jacket.'

to ease into, it is not for everyone.'

Despite his antics, his Fury co-star Brad Pitt has praised him for his craft. 'He's one of the best I've seen,' he says. However, fellow Lawless colleague Mia Wasikowska admits Shia was too much for her. 'He's a very method actor, and so I was on the receiving end of the method.'

And though his talent has never been in question, after such a publicly aggressive outburst, it's make or break time when it comes to cleaning up his public image.

'Shia's breakdowns may get worse, Sally points out. 'Everyone deals with pressure and stress differently, but without professional help he will not have the strategies to learn to cope.'

'I have no apologies,' says an unrepentant Shia. 'The best I can do is learn from my mistakes and move forward. That's what I'm trying to do.'

THE HEADBUTT

During a night out in London in January 2014, Shia headbutted a guy when he thought he heard him offend his girlfriend. 'What are you saying about my girl's mum?' he was heard to ask.

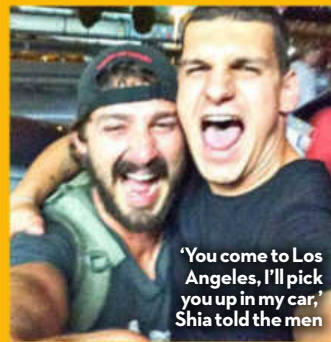

THE INJURIES

A car accident in 2008 left Shia's hand severely damaged. 'I've had screws and plates put in. They put a screw in one of my knuckles,' he says.

WILD RIDE IN GERMANY

Following his explosive fight with Mia last week, Shia jumped into a car with strangers. He then took numerous photos with his new pals and invited them to his house in LA.

'You come to Los Angeles, I'll pick you up in my car,' Shia told the men

SHIA'S REAL

CHASING A HOMELESS MAN

Shia explained the photos of him running after a homeless man as a simple misunderstanding. The actor was talking to the man while having a smoke outside a bar. 'A woman runs up and starts taking pictures of me... and it trips him out,' Shia says. 'He starts running down the road after 30 minutes of conversation, so I start running after him.'

AWAY FROM THE SPOTLIGHT, PERFECT PAIR RYAN GOSLING AND EVA MENDES ARE STILL GOING STRONG

The premiere for The Place Beyond the Pines at the 2012 Toronto International Film Festival was a special time for Ryan Gosling and Eva Mendes, who had found love on the film's set a year earlier. Both smitten yet shy about showing their love publicly, Eva blushed as a coy Ryan wrapped an affectionate hand around her back to rest protectively against her ribcage. That was one of the last times

Ryan and Eva stood side by side in public, but behind closed doors the new parents are tighter than ever.

Since Eva gave birth to their precious daughter, Esmeralda, back in September, the genetically blessed duo have stepped up their efforts to live a life away from the public glare and avoid the fate of many famous couples before them. They've also ditched the Tinseltown trend of hiring a nanny, all while Eva maintains her fashionable and fabulous appearance.

Heart-throb Ryan, 34, has spoken about Eva's humble nature and how she's 'never wanting credit' for all her hard work on and off camera, while Twitter has been the platform of choice for fans to voice their approval of the relationship. 'Ryan Gosling and Eva Mendes actually annoy me by being so damn perfect,'

In a sign of what was to come, the pair played parents to a son in The Place Beyond the Pines

These two love birds looked mighty cosy at the 2012 Toronto Film Festival one besotted fan tweeted.

With Ryan's unstoppable career, 41-year-old Eva's fashion collection and new beauty line CIRCA, plus their baby girl to keep them busy, OK! investigates how Hollywood's hottest couple make it work.

THEIR DAUGHTER IS THEIR NUMBER ONE PRIORITY

Describing herself as a 'hands-on mum' with no help from a nanny, Eva says she and her beau are lucky to have the support of both their mothers and a bevy of clucky aunties when caring for Esmeralda, 10 months. 'No matter how tired I am, I just do it,' she says.

As a couple, the loved-up duo disappeared from red carpet events, around the same time that Eva fell pregnant with Esmeralda, a time she said was 'intimate' for a mother and unborn child.

'Whether we like it or not, privacy is going to be difficult for Esmeralda. I think it's unfair but that's our reality,' Eva said just months after giving birth. ➔

WO

STAY OUT OF THE SPOTLIGHT

In the past, Ryan flaunted his ill-fated relationships in front of the cameras, which might be why he and Eva have lasted the distance – they're rarely seen together!

Date nights are important to the pair. Ryan treated Eva to a trip to an LA roller-rink for her birthday in March

'Ryan and I decided early on to give [Esmeralda] as much privacy as we could,' Eva told beauty website Violet Grey of their plans to raise their daughter away from the spotlight. So fans were pleasantly surprised on March 13, when the pair shared the stage at the SXSW South by Southwest festival in Austin, Texas, to promote their film Lost River. It was the first time in almost two years that they'd appeared together at an event.

Ryan has managed to dodge most questions about his daughter, admitting just once that he was 'new at it [fatherhood], so I'm just adjusting to it right now'.

BALANCE WORK AND FAMILY LIFE

While Ryan continues to act, Eva has happily taken a break from Hollywood. The last film the Miami-born beauty shot was Ryan's very own Lost River. She has, however, turned her hand to fashion design, a fitting foray since she's one of Tinseltown's most stylish stars. Her Eva Mendes Collection for New York & Company also allows her to be by Ryan's side as he films across the globe.

Recently, Eva was named the latest celebrity face for cosmetic and skincare giant Estée Lauder, another role that allows her to travel and be with her baby girl.

LOOK GOOD FOR EACH OTHER

Following her 41st birthday in March, an always immaculate Eva controversially told Extra that she has a strict 'no sweatpants' rule in her home. She explained that the humble tracky dacks were a surefire way to end any relationship: 'You can't do sweatpants. No! Ladies, number one cause of divorce in America? Sweatpants.'

But it's not just Eva who likes to look good for her love. Ryan has one of the buffest bodies in the biz – who doesn't remember that scene from Crazy, Stupid, Love.

Two years before finding her soulmate, Eva described her perfect man, and it seems the universe delivered in spades, because Ryan ticks all the boxes. 'I like a mysterious man. I like a man who reads and is knowledgeable about the world, but who doesn't have to brag about it. And I really like nice forearms – nice strong hands and forearms.'

HAVE EACH OTHER'S BACKS

After courting backlash online for her hot fashion tip, a chivalrous Ryan came to Eva's defence. 'Obviously sweatpants thing was a joke,' he tweeted in support for his baby mama. 'Wearing them now. That's right, tweeting in sweatpants. Rats! Said too much! You win again Twitter.' It was an uncharacteristic move for the star, who usually reserves his Twitter account for Fashion is a big love of Eva's, although she admits, 'I don't like my men to be too ornate.' We reckon Ryan's classic and clean-cut style fits the bill nicely!

'I love to be diligent about my [beauty] routine,' says Eva, who admits she'll sometimes squeeze it in 'at 4am' while Esmeralda sleeps. Likewise, Ryan takes time for himself with regular workouts.'

I like a man who reads and is knowledgeable about the world promoting his movies or charitable causes.

As well as being a huge fan of Eva's jokes, he has an appreciation for her talents on camera – so much so, he cast her in his directorial debut, Lost River.

GIVE PRAISE WHERE IT'S DUE

Usually tight-lipped about his ladylove, earlier this year Ryan gushed about the costume work Eva did for Lost River. 'She indirectly picked things that became very important to different people involved,' he boasted. '[She's] never wanting credit.'

Eva, on the other hand, has been open about their like-mindedness when it comes to parenting. The new mother also admits that she was 'blown away' by Ryan's acting chops in Blue Valentine, and says it was what led her to audition for The Place Beyond the Pines. She also reveals that his biggest gig to date, The Notebook, is still a Valentine's Day favourite that makes her 'cry and weep'. ●

'I like [men who] stand back and let their women shine,' says Eva, seen here with Ryan in the early days of their relationship

Miranda: I HAVE A LOT OF Secrets!

BUSINESS IS BOOMING AND SHE'S SNAGGED A HOT NEW BEAU. THE MODEL DISHES TO OK! ON MEN, MOTHERHOOD AND HAVING IT ALL...

Even by her own crazy busy standards, 2015 has been quite the whirlwind year for our Miranda Kerr. Not only has she been linked to not one but two billionaire boyfriends – way to go, girl! – her career as a supermodel and skincare guru continues to flourish. ‘My ambition comes from my passion,’ says Miranda, 32. ‘I find what I love and then expand on that.’

Despite the frenetic schedule and the rumoured dalliance with James Packer and now Snapchat co-founder Evan Spiegel, one young man is front and centre in Miranda’s world – her adorable four-year-old son, Flynn. ‘I’m so proud of him. He’s a very good boy,’ gushes the doting mum, who’s also remained on good terms with Flynn’s dad, Orlando Bloom. ‘We are very good friends,’ Miranda says. ‘We do everything to make sure our relationship is harmonious otherwise Flynn would feel it.’

A happy home life, a hot new boyfriend and estimated earnings of $7 million a year, with Forbes ranking Miranda fourth on its 2014 list of highest earning models thanks to her KORA Organics line and the campaigns she fronts – including Swarovski, Reebok and Royal Albert china – could the Gunnedah girl’s life be any more perfect? We don’t think so! Here the model mum dishes on life with Flynn, her top beauty tips and why chocolate, burgers and fries are her go-to treats...

We have to ask, what is your secret to looking so good?

I have lots of secrets! Basically, it is about taking care of the inside; feeding your body with the right nutrients so that you feel good and you feel energised, getting enough sleep, exercising and doing exercises that you really enjoy – for me, that is yoga or Pilates. I also like to dance around if I am with my son or jump on a trampoline with him. That is a really good way to get exercise and have fun.

How is your son, Flynn?

He is amazing. He has this little thing where he is like, ‘Turn around, turn around!’ I will say, ‘OK,’ and be thinking, ‘What is he doing?’ Then he will go and get a little flower and say, ‘It’s for you!’ He listens, he is patient and he is quite intelligent for a four-year-old. I am a very proud mother.

What sort of things do you teach him?

I like to read to him and go with him on walks in nature and explain to him the beauty in nature – whether it be a beautiful sunset or the flowers, just to appreciate life and to appreciate the world. It is important.

HER NEW MAN

While Flynn will always come first, Miranda also has a new man in her life: 25-year-old tech genius

Evan Spiegel, who is reportedly worth $2.04 billion. The pair were putting on the PDAs during a date in Venice California in June. ‘They sat at the bar and were making out,’ dished a spy at the venue. ‘They were really into each other.’ While Miranda’s remained tight-lipped, an Insty post suggests she’s feeling the love. ‘In being love, I give love. In being joy, I give joy. In being happiness, I give happiness,’ she posted.

Does Flynn travel with you a lot?

Now that he is four and he is at pre-school, I like to keep him in his routine. I will just go for a couple of days and he will stay with his dad and then I will come back. I have found out that routine is very important for children, so I keep it very simple and I like him to always feel that unconditional love. Even when I am away from him, I will FaceTime him and I will say, 'Mummy loves you and I am always with you in your heart.'

Talk us through your health routine

I studied nutrition, both in Australia and in New York, and so I think it is very important for me to drink lots of water – at least one-and-a-half to two litres a day. I do yoga for 20 minutes a day and I also meditate at least twice a day for 20 minutes. It's very important to have that balance throughout your mind, body and spirit.

What about things like eating out, how do you manage to stay on track when you are socialising?

I believe that life is about balance. I eat 80 per cent healthy and 20 per cent indulgent. It's very important to feed your spirit and your soul so you can feel good. It's important to enjoy those moments with friends – eating a burger and fries – but I do not do that every day. [Read Miranda's other diet tips opposite.]

Does your holistic approach to life come from your childhood?

Some of my most favourite memories are of growing up on the farm with my grandmother. She taught me so much. She taught me the importance of eating healthy food, because she had an organic vegetable patch. She would get the vegetables and she would cut them all up and everything was all fresh; cucumbers, zucchinis and pumpkins.

Does your natural and healthy approach to beauty and fitness take the place of surgical options, as far as you are concerned?

I am not sure if it takes the place of that, but I think the reason that I eat so well and the reason that I take care of myself and I use organic skincare, is because it makes me feel better. I feel more energised when I am exercising and I feel much better when I am eating healthily.

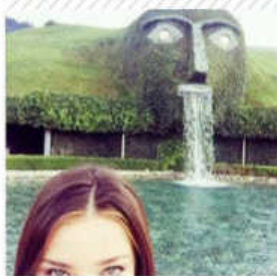

Is there any part of your body that you really aren't happy with?

I honestly feel that everyone has something that they may not necessarily INTERNATIONAL MODEL OF mystery!

HER JOB TAKES HER ALL OVER THE GLOBE

'What I like about modelling is that it has given me the opportunity to travel and experience different cultures,' the glamorous nomad says!

She loves an Insty quote, 'Wisdom begins in wonder. Socrates,' Miranda captioned this snap.

love about themselves, but it's important not to focus on that. It's important to focus on the aspects of your character and your personality that you really do like about yourself, and expand on those things. I try to look for the positive and not the negative.

What about those days when you wake up and don't feel great?

I try to minimise my time in front of the mirror because unless I have an event to go to or something, I don't really look in the mirror. If I have an event to go to or if I am in front of everybody on television, I will be like, 'Is my make-up OK? Is my lipstick OK?' Apart from that, I try to avoid the mirror.

Can you share your beauty routine? Is it complicated?

Honestly, now that I am a mother, I really do keep it very simple. I like a light, tinted moisturiser, a lip balm and a little spritz of mist.

What advice would you give to others about perfecting their skincare and beauty routine?

I would say keep it fresh and keep it glowing. Exfoliate and cleanse your skin really well. Then moisturise and put a light, tinted moisturiser on, a colour on your lip that will accentuate your eye colour, a little bit of mascara and a little bit of blush.

Are you worried about anything beauty wise as you get older? Maybe wrinkles?

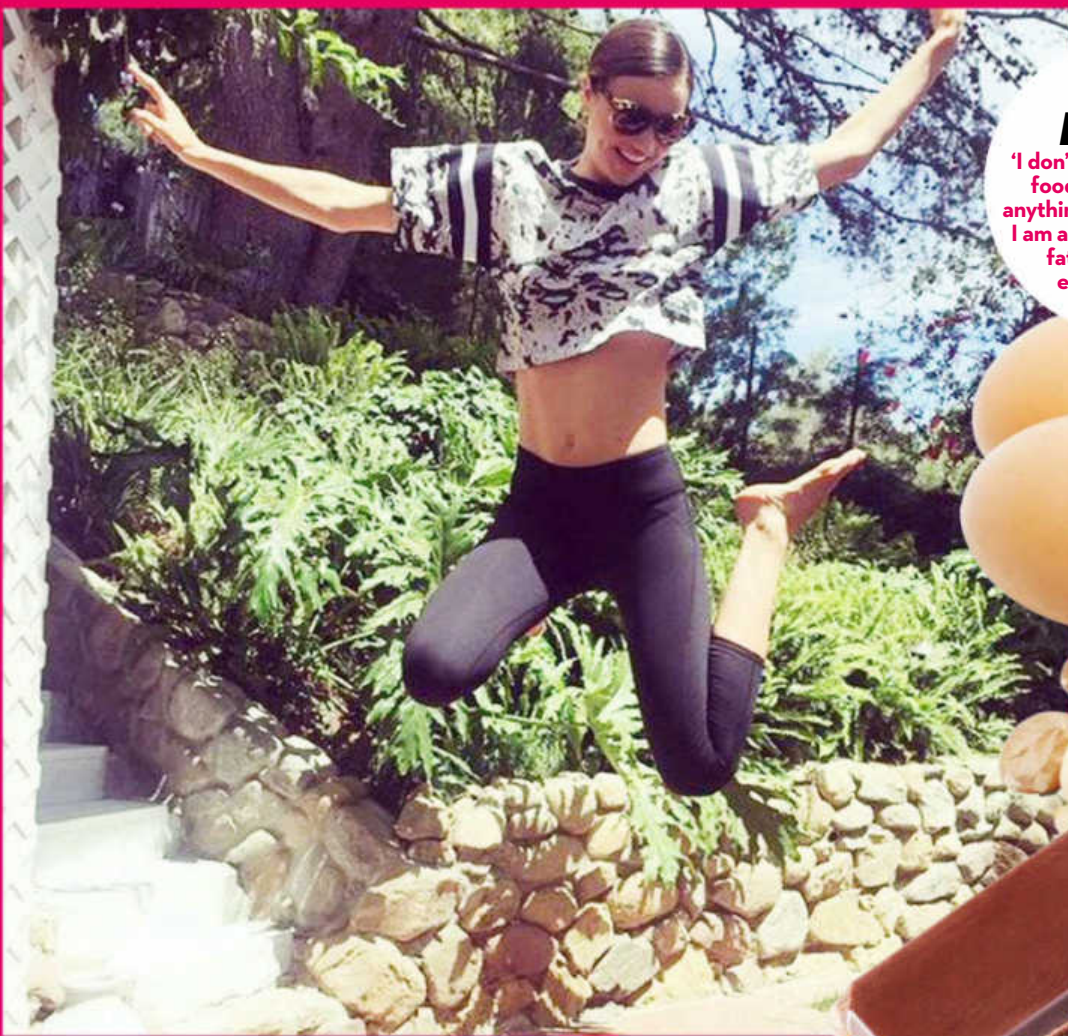

No. I am just going to take it day by day and not worry too much about the ageing process. I think women like Audrey Hepburn aged so gracefully and they weren't afraid of ageing either. They just embraced their wrinkles and just kind of went with it.

Do you have any style tips you can share with us?

Jewellery can really dress up any outfit. Sometimes I carry jewellery in my handbag and so if I am at work and going out later, after work I might put on a statement necklace and it will really make the outfit.

Finally, we love your Instagram! What would you say are your tips for the perfect selfie?

Take the camera a little higher than yourself, look towards the camera lens and try to pretend that you are looking at someone you really love. ●

AVOID LOW FAT

'I don't believe in low-fat food. I will not touch anything that says low-fat. I am all for good healthy fats like avocado, eggs and nuts.'

EAT THE TREAT!

'I always keep chocolate in my pantry because if I know it's there, I don't want it. If it's not there I am like, "Oh, I really want some chocolate!" That's just me!'

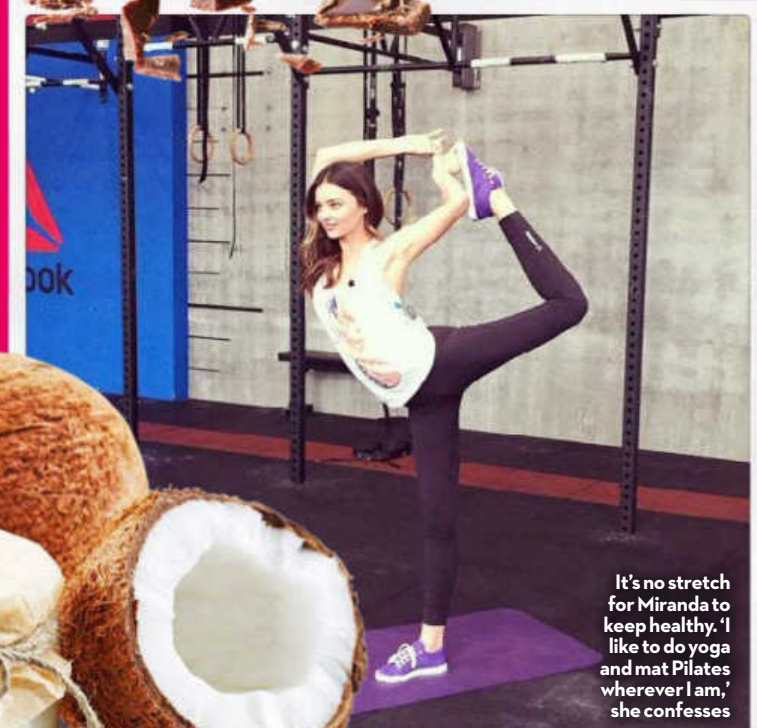

Miranda's DIET TIPS

You don't get a flawless bod like Miranda's by mainlining chocolate and chips. Instead, the au naturel beauty, who's 175cm tall and weighs in at a trim but not scary skinny 54kgs, says - not surprisingly - that a balanced, real, clean food diet is the key to her fab figure. 'I try my best to eat healthily the majority of the time,' she says. 'I try to eat organic whenever possible, but it's important not to be too strict about it.'

GOOD OILS

'I feel [coconut oil is] the best oil to cook with. You can also use it on the ends of your hair and on your skin to remove make-up. It's quite a versatile product.'

It's no stretch for Miranda to keep healthy. 'I like to do yoga and mat Pilates wherever I am,' she confesses

*I went on
The Voice

Nathan says he and the Madden brothers share the same relaxed vibe

Busking pays big bucks

Nathan spends most weekends busking at market stalls and admits it's a nice money-earner. 'It's super-profitable. I've bought a lot of my good music equipment and then recently a new car, a big van, with the money I've made.'

NEW LIFE

THE VOICE'S FOLK SINGING STANDOUT CHATS ABOUT GOING FROM BUSKING TO THE BIG TIME

Nathan Hawes is riding high – he's just managed to escape two paparazzi photographers who have been tailing him all morning. For the 18-year-old Central Coast busker, who's preparing to sit his final school exams, life has certainly changed over the past few months thanks to his performances on The Voice.

'It's been crazy, and a little weird,' he chuckles. A bit shy at first, the Team Madden fave soon warms up and is happy to chat with OK! about his girlfriend (no, it's not his Voice pal Grace Pitts) and staying true to his busking ways, no matter how many paparazzi tail him.

How have you found The Voice ride? Is it true that paparazzi follow you around?

Yeah, it's been so weird. I go into a cafe and they wait outside... I think it will die down soon, hopefully.

And what about fangirls – do you have many of those?

It's strange – people out there that I don't even know are going crazy. After my Battle Round, I went from 7000 followers on social media to something like 21,000 [at last count, he had over 57,000 followers on Instagram alone!]. It's just ridiculous.

The Maddens said they'd be older brothers to you, have they been?

My time with them has been pretty brief. It's definitely good when I get to see them; they're really nice, they're so relaxed and I kind of think that suits the way I am a bit.

In the past Joel has taken his team out to get tattoos. Would you consider getting some ink?

If it was something really meaningful, then I would, although I'm not sure that's going to happen this year...

You've been busking for several years, have you encountered any problems?

A homeless man once stole my money. It was like 10.30 in the morning and he couldn't even walk straight. He was like, '$20 in the city could get me through the week.' There's also certain people who don't like what I'm doing and will tell me to turn it off or pack up... I don't let them get to me.

Have you ever had a part-time job?

Before I started busking, Mum wanted me to get a job and said, 'If you get a job at McDonald's for like three months and then quit I'll be happy.' So I did that and then started busking. Mum and Dad came with me in the beginning, until I got my driver's license.

You'll be sitting your final exams in a few months – is it stressful managing your study and The Voice?

I try not to stress about school too much, I don't think it's the end to everything. I just really want to play music; I don't want to study too much.

How do your parents feel about that?

I think they know that I want to do my music as a career, so they've kind of been more relaxed about school.

Are you hoping you'll get to do an original song on the show at some point?

Yeah, I really hope I can do an original.

Nathan is determined not to let his new fame change him. 'I really like busking, I don't plan on stopping'

I don't love doing covers, but I make them my own. It's not like they [the producers] are trying to change me or anything; everyone is really understanding when it comes to artists' requests. It's just that my music is really about my original stuff.

Have you penned an original song for your girlfriend, Alicia?

Maybe! No, not yet. Each song that I write she's like, "Oh, it's probably about me?!" But no, it's not [laughs].

What do you enjoy doing when you're not playing your music?

I love surfing. Even when it's freezing, I've got a really expensive wetsuit [laughs]. When I finish school I definitely want to go travelling more and do shows and surf in between – that's the plan.

So packing out stadiums internationally has no appeal?

I really like busking. Hopefully now there will be more people coming along to my busking shows on the street, especially in summer when it warms up. ●

MY GIRLFRIEND WANTED TO BREAK UP

Nathan and his Team Delta friend Grace Pitts, who made her exit during the Super Battle round, were shaping up to be this season's love story – but what they forgot to tell us was that their cute friendship was never going to be anything more, especially since they both have partners. Nathan has been with his girlfriend, Alicia, for the past eight months. The two met at a mutual friend's party, and Alicia even calls

Grace a friend. 'She wasn't worried about the match-making with Grace at all,' Nathan says. 'We all thought it was pretty funny.' What Alicia was concerned about, however, was that Nathan would lose some of his appeal because of his girlfriend status. He tells, 'She said to me, "Babe, if you're on TV you've got to be single!"'

RIHANNA BETRAYED BY HER MAN — AGAIN!

Time to kick him to the curb! Just one week after news broke that Rihanna's beau of two months, soccer star Karim Benzema, 27, has been cozying up to Karrueche Tran, 27, (who famously came between Rihanna, 27, and ex Chris Brown, 26), a second woman has come forward, telling In Touch that she, too, has been sleeping with RiRi's boyfriend — and that she's the one who is being cheated on! 'Karim and I have been together for over a year,' bikini model Analicia Chaves, 25, exclusively tells In Touch. 'Rihanna is the other woman!' To make matters worse, Karim has kept both his women in the dark. 'After photos surfaced of Karim and Rihanna in NYC [in early June], I confronted him,' she says. 'He denied everything. I was crushed when I recently found out what was really going on.' Analicia — who has also been linked to soccer player Axel Witsel — is still with Karim and says she feels pity for Rihanna: 'I'm sure she knew nothing about me. Karim has probably broken her heart, too.'

But it's actually Teresa who is keeping her out. 'Teresa doesn't want Melissa using her name for fame,' a source tells In Touch. FIRED POLICE CHIEF Digs Up Dirt for Duggars

Jim Bob and Michelle Duggar are cozy with the cops in their hometown — so cozy that the fired police chief of Tontitown, Arkansas, is trying to dig up dirt for them. In Touch discovered the fact exclusively through a Freedom of Information Act request that produced emails from ex-chief Kristopher Arthur fishing for information about a local law firm that was involved in finding public documents about Josh Duggar's molestation scandal. Arthur is less than forthcoming about what he's up to. When asked if he's working for the Duggars, he replied: 'I choose not to answer that at the present time. I've known the Duggars for a long time.' (Arthur copied the Duggars in on his emails to city officials requesting information.) Other Tontitown cops have also had relationships with the Duggars, accepting money to work security for them despite the fact their department investigated the family. Jim Bob, 50, and Michelle, 48, are furious TLC canceled their show, 19 Kids & Counting, sources say, and the family has threatened to sue the city of Springdale, Arkansas, for releasing the police report of the investigations on Josh.

Demi Moore looked worse for wear when she stepped out in NYC on July 20, one day after a man was found dead in her California pool during a party. But is stress or botched plastic surgery to blame? "It looks like Demi has had a filler placed in her cheeks and chin, and it was placed too close to the skin surface," Manhattan plastic surgeon Dr. Norman Rowe, who has not treated the 52-year-old actress, tells In Touch. More hypocrisy from the Duggars! On July 22, Jinger Duggar, 21, posted on the family Facebook page a video of mom Michelle roller-skating, praising, "She out-skated the whole place... backward." It was backward all right — the conservative Duggars have long forbade dancing and any music with a beat because Michelle says it encourages "sensual" feelings, and "there is usually a consequence that comes from it" in the Bible. "I am

FANTASTIC FOUR TH
GENER

THE BELOVED FRANCHISE HAS BEEN GIVEN AN EXCITING REBOOT. HERE'S WHAT TO EXPECT...

Picture it: a science genius (played by Miles Teller) takes his best friend, his girlfriend and her brother on a special mission in outer space. In a freak accident, all four are attacked by cosmic rays that leaves each of them with special powers – and the Fantastic Four are born.

As fans will know, the iconic Marvel series previously made it to the big screen in a rollicking 2005 version starring Jessica Alba and Chris Evans. But along with a whole new cast, this version also promises to be much darker under the vision of director Josh Trank.

'Tonally, he wanted it to be more grounded, a little more gritty, a little darker,' says actor Michael B Jordan, 28. 'He wanted to do something completely different.'

Michael plays the film's resident hottie (literally!), The Human Torch. But the star who perhaps undergoes the biggest transformation is Jamie Bell, whose character Ben Grimm mutates into 203cm of solid rock as The Thing.

'Obviously I'm not made of rocks,' says Jamie, 29, who achieved his performance through motion capture. 'I'm hugely excited.'

And as four of Hollywood's hottest rising stars, the cast are pretty fantastic in their own right! Kate Mara, 32, (The Invisible Woman) and Miles, 28, (Mr Fantastic) spill on unleashing their hidden heroes!

ON HOW IT FELT TO JOIN THE FANTASTIC FOUR TEAM

Kate: I'm not a comic book aficionado at all, but I knew they were so special. They're considered the first family of comics. And we're trying to offer a re-imagining of that.

Miles: It's so wild to be part of this kind of a huge summer film when you've been used to working on low-budget films and worrying about your next job. I can count on the fact that I will be shooting either a Divergent film or a Fantastic Four film every summer for the next few years. It's a good feeling to not have to worry about your next pay cheque and it also frees you to do more art house kind of movies or more personal kinds of projects. It's the best situation any actor can be in.

ON THE CHALLENGES OF JOINING A BLOCKBUSTER

Kate: This is the first. I never realised how much imagination it would involve.

Miles: The biggest difference as an actor is the amount of time you get to prepare for every scene. On big films like Fantastic Four, you will have a half hour to prepare for every new shooting angle on the exact same take! [Laughs.] It's like being in an alternate reality in terms of the work. [But] the thing that counts is being able to enjoy your work and the experience you have with the other cast members and crew. You don't think about how big the project is at all.

ON THE BEST SUPERPOWER

Kate: I think invisibility is the top for me. You could do anything you wanted: rob a bank; sneak in anywhere; take on criminals. The options are endless. Although flying is pretty cool, too. Think how much you'd save on airfare alone [laughs].

ON HIDDEN TALENTS

Miles: I come from a family of musicians. I've basically been drumming since I was 15 – I played drums while I was in university [NYU] and then after I moved to LA I still had my drum kit with me. It was a pretty good move when they were looking for an actor who could play the drums in Whiplash!

ON HOW THIS FILM DIFFERS TO THE 2005 VERSION

Kate: It's a very different take on the film than what people probably expect. I'm not really familiar with the comic books other than the few I've read since I got the part. I know we're making a very grounded version of a superhero film and I think you see that in the trailer and the footage already out there.

Miles: We're also humanising the characters and giving them a lot more layers so audiences will relate to them in a deeper way. With the next film, people who know the comics will see us evolve into the Fantastic Four characters they've gotten to know.

ON THE PRESSURES OF JOINING A BELOVED FRANCHISE

Kate: I was really surprised how negative people were about it. Even way before the

MR FANTASTIC

'Reed Richards is this highly intelligent genius,' says Miles Teller. Following his transformation, Reed develops some extra-special powers – such as the ability to transform shape at will!

THE INVISIBLE WOMAN

Sue Storm can alter force fields and make herself invisible – but Kate Mara wanted to show the real woman behind her character. 'You also get the emotional and very real human part of who these [characters] are,' she explains.

“It's a very different take on the original” trailer came out, without seeing anything. But that very quickly changed... and I know the film will speak for itself for any remaining doubters. It's going to be gritty and dark and change the perception of Fantastic Four and the previous films.

Miles: I wasn't sure if I would be able to get into it the way I've done with characters in my other work, but I thought it was a huge opportunity and the chance to have the recognition that will open up so many more films for me. I knew what I was getting into.

ON PREPPING TO PLAY A SUPERHERO

Miles: Your approach as an actor remains the same. You prepare for your character in the same way, and for this film I spent a lot of time learning about the science behind the story so I would feel comfortable when my character is talking about quantum physics. I also spent a lot of time with the technical adviser.

Kate: Josh asked us not to [see the 2005 film] so I followed his direction. I wanted to make my version of Sue Storm so different from before, mould her into the shape I feel comfortable with. I think all of us – Jamie, Miles and Michael – had that same idea and I'm glad we stuck to it.

MILES, ON HIS MODEL GIRLFRIEND, KELEIGH SPERRY

We have so much fun together. We love travelling and just being able to hang out. She's helped me relax a lot especially during the past year, when everything has been moving so fast around me. I'm really lucky to have a great girl like her in my life.

KATE, ON PLANS TO ACT WITH HER YOUNGER SISTER ROONEY

Hopefully it will happen down the line but it's not something either of us are intentionally going after. Right now both of us are doing our very individual thing. It keeps it fresh.

ON 2015 BEING HER BEST YEAR YET

Maybe I'm just an optimist but I'm always excited about work. I always feel like it's going to be my year. I don't mean this is going to be my year professionally. I've been acting for so long. I always feel really lucky. I can't believe I get to do this as my grown-up job, because I've been doing it since I was a kid. ●

THE THING

Reed's best friend, Ben Grimm, develops the power of super-strength and indestructibility when he becomes The Thing. 'I think people were kind of confused when I was cast, but this is an origin story of these characters,' Jamie Bell says.

THE HUMAN TORCH

As Sue's brother Johnny Storm, Michael B. Jordan's character has the ability to fly and turn himself into a human fireball. 'It's like living out a childhood dream, being a huge comic book fan,' he says.

FANTASTIC FRIENDS

4 LIFE!

FLASHBACK

The cast isn't the only thing that's changed with the new Fantastic Four reboot. 'Originally it was a much lighter version,' says Ioan Gruffudd, who starred in the 2005 version, alongside Jessica Alba, Michael Chiklis and Chris Evans - who played the original Johnny Storm. 'I think it's great they're picking it up again,' Chris adds. 'There's a lot more story to tell.'

'The set was an intense environment. But because of our dynamic, there was a lot of joking around,' Kate says of her co-stars Michael, Miles, Jamie and Toby Kebbell (who plays villain Victor Dumashev)

TO OK! ABOUT HIS FITNESS RANGE

Have you always wanted to design sportswear? For the past 12 months I have been studying to become a health coach at the Institute for Integrative Nutrition in NYC. Designing sportswear is the result of combining several of my life's passions. How did you go about creating the collection? I designed the brand a couple of years ago while I was living in NYC. I spent months staying up late and sketching to come up with the inaugural DundasFit collection. What can we expect? Our garments are designed to have a comfortable feel that promotes moisture management while working out.

Q. WHAT'S THE BEST FRAGRANCE TO TAKE TRAVELLING?

It's no fun having a fragrance leak in your cosmetics kit while travelling, or worse, confiscated at the airport! Don't stop smelling good on the go, though. Simply get your hands on fragrance balms. These luxe little pots smell (and feel) delightful and take up the space of a lipgloss in your bag.

Q. CAN I GET GLOWING SKIN FOR WINTER WITHOUT GOING OTT?

This clever new product is a mix of instant tan (for a noticeable glow in seconds) and a gradual tanner, which means you can slowly build a lit-from-within look without taking it too far. And in winter, when you want subtle warmth without the OTT colour or shine, this formula offers a matte finish for natural, bronzed and beautiful skin, sans effort.

Q. WHAT IN THE WORLD IS STROBING?

Strobing is like the lazy younger sister to contouring, as it focuses solely on the highlighting process to give you dreamy skin, fast. Simply apply illuminating products where the light naturally hits your skin: top of the cheekbones, down the centre of the nose, along the browbone, in the cupid's bow and in the centre of your chin and forehead. With numerous celebs on board, it's the perfect springtime look.

Q. HOW CAN I KEEP MY MAKE-UP BRUSHES CLEAN?

'Mix shampoo and warm water in the palm of your hand and swish the brush around in it to really clean all the brush hairs,' says Rachael Brook, make-up expert for Real Techniques. 'Once clean, reshape them while wet (this is a VERY important step for keeping the brushes in shape) and sit them on a towel to dry, or even blowdry them if you're in a rush.' We love this luxe (for less) new range of brushes for quick and easy make-up application and a flawless finish.

Q. HELP! MY SKIN IS FREAKING OUT. WHAT CAN I DO?

At this time of year, office heating sucks all the moisture from the air, as well as your skin. Redness, dry patches and spots appear and we use heavy make-up to compensate. To combat this, try a hydrating mask once a week, a balancing moisturiser (using the lighter lotion on your T-zone and the richer on your cheeks), a CC cream for colour-correction and coverage and a gentle spot treatment. Go on, treat yourself.

'My secret is living a healthy lifestyle... it's really important because looking glamorous and looking sexy comes also from the inside, so if you eat healthy, if you work out, if you keep in shape; also having a sense of humour about life, taking things easy – it's a big part of the way you present

KICK-START YOUR METABOLISM

'I always want to look my best on a shoot or for a fashion show, so I do an extra couple of sit-ups the night before and I drink hot water with lemon to get my metabolism kick-started in the morning and to cleanse my system.'

CHOOSE WISELY

'If I have a major shoot or fashion show coming up and I want to look my best, then I'll spend a little extra time working out or I'll stick to eating salads and chicken for a few days. CURB YOUR HUNGER

EXPERTS FROM THE CSIRO TOTAL WELLBEING DIET REVEAL HOW TO CONTROL YOUR HUNGER WITHOUT STARVING!

KNOW WHAT YOU EAT

Aim for a balance of high-protein, low-GI foods – such as omelettes, lean red meat and oats – so you feel full and satisfied. Their slower rate of digestion means they stay in your gut longer, triggering a response which makes you feel fuller and stops you from crashing and reaching for an unhealthy quick fix.

GET SOME SLEEP

There's more to weight control than diet and exercise. Stress and poor-quality sleep trigger the release of the hormones cortisol and noradrenalin, which increase hunger levels. Find ways to manage the stress in your life, and seek out relaxing activities to counteract the effects of stress. In addition, develop good sleep habits such as going to bed at the same time each night, and ensuring your bedroom is cool, dark and quiet.

DON'T DRINK KILOJOULES

Our appetite regulation depends in part on chewing, food bulk and stomach distension to let the brain know when you are full – something it doesn't get from liquid kilojoules. Sugar-laden drinks – such as soft drink, fruit juice, cordial, energy and sports drinks and alcohol – are especially high in kilojoules. One exception is healthy, homemade smoothies, and remember, water is good for you, so drink up!

SNACK SMART

Snacking can help satisfy your hunger between meals and prevent food cravings, but the type and size of the snack is important. Be wise with snacking as this can tip you over your daily allowance. For example, a chocolate bar has the same number of kilojoules as around four small apples. If you get the munchies, opt for fresh fruit, vegies, nuts and low-fat dairy foods such as yoghurt.

BEEF IT UP

JOURNEY TO ASIA WITH THIS DELICIOUS CLASSIC

INGREDIENTS

- 500g beef rump steak, thinly sliced
- 8 bamboo skewers, soaked
- 250g jar satay sauce
- 1 tbsp peanut oil
- 375g packet rice stick noodles
- 270ml can coconut milk
- 1/2 tsp dried chilli flakes
- Lime juice, to taste
- Sliced cucumber and halved cherry tomatoes, to serve

METHOD

1 Thread beef strips onto skewers. Arrange in a single layer in a shallow dish. 2 In a jug, whisk together 1/2 cup satay sauce and oil. Pour over skewers, turning to coat well. Marinate for 15 minutes. 3 Meanwhile, in a heat-proof bowl, soak rice noodles in just boiled water following packet instructions, until softened. Drain well. 4 Heat barbecue grill or chargrill pan on medium. Cook beef skewers for 6-8 minutes, turning on all sides, until just cooked through. 5 In a medium saucepan, combine remaining satay sauce, coconut milk and chilli flakes. Simmer on low, stirring, for 2-3 minutes, until heated through. Season with lime juice, to taste. 6 Serve noodles topped with two skewers each and spoon over sauce. Accompany with salad.

THE ULTIMATE ROUND-UP OF WHAT'S HOT

THIS WEEK IN ENTERTAINMENT

The ANNA & TIM SHOW is coming!

HOT ON THE BOX

THE REALITY COUPLE ARE IN TALKS FOR THEIR OWN SERIES

Ever since Tim Robards and Anna Heinrich's love story began almost two years ago on the inaugural season of The Bachelor Australia, we've been obsessed with their blossoming romance. The Sydney-based couple have kept us in the loop throughout their relationship, with PDAs on social media and appearances together on I'm A Celebrity... Get Me Out of Here! and most recently Dancing with the Stars (Sunday, 7pm, Channel 7), where Anna, 28, was Tim's supportive cheerleader.

Consider these flirtations with fans a dress rehearsal, because as Tim tells OK!, the main event – a reality show of their own – is on the way. 'We've been talking about it,' reveals Tim, 32. 'It has to be something that isn't, "Hey, look at us," or "Anna just burnt the toast and now we're going to fight about it," he explains. 'It has to be something that is inspirational and aspirational. I think we are good role models for young people, we try and do our best, we apply ourselves, we're disciplined and have a good balance in life, so it would be great to continue to be a role model for certain people.' Can't wait!

AUSTRALIA'S VERY OWN BILL AND GIULIANA RANCIC

Tim has put a lot of thought into his and Anna's show. 'If you could compare it, it'd be something along the lines of [E! show] Giuliana & Bill, which can sometimes be funny, and where sometimes you go through some of their pain and their heartache.'

RIK-E-RAGGA OPENS UP TO OK!

One look at Rik-E-Ragga's Instagram profile and it's not hard to see that the reggae culture has been a part of his life for many years - including the sometimes frowned upon smoking culture. Posing with cigarettes, hashtagging 'highlife' and wearing T-shirts with 'marijuana' across his chest was a part of Rik-E's daily life - but not anymore.

'I don't do it anymore, I'm focusing on my voice,' he tells OK! of his wilder days. 'Back then it was harmless, but now I'm in the top 16 and trying to get my future in my music - it's a bit stupid for me to be doing that.'

The 31-year-old father says his one-year-old daughter, Aaliyah, also has a lot to do with his reformed ways. 'Since she was born I have completely changed as a person. I'm still me, but before it was more about partying,' he says. The Team Delta singer is keen to promote reggae music in Australia and is passionate about showing how the music isn't always connected to drug use. 'Reggae can be on the radio without it promoting marijuana,' he says. 'Yes, there is the association, but you don't have to do that to be able to enjoy or do reggae.'

THE EVOLUTION OF MAXI

Trent 'Maxi' Maxwell, 23, says it 'feels like yesterday' that he first appeared on Bondi Rescue as a trainee lifeguard at 16 years old. But the stalwart could soon fly the coop, as he is currently in the final stages of training to become a fire-fighter. Settling down is also on the agenda as the former CLEO Bachelor of the Year says popping the question to girlfriend of three years, Tahlia, is on the horizon. 'I'm not so little anymore,' he laughs.

THE GAME OF THRONES HOTTIE
CHATS HAIR, LIFE AND TROUBLES WITH HIS LOVE-LIFE

I just hate it in my face. It just starts pissing you off after a while,' Kit Harington admits of his long locks – a contractual obligation he's had to meet since 2011, when he was plucked from British obscurity and thrust into the role of Game of Thrones' leading lad Jon Snow.

'Whenever Thrones finishes... I'll change [the hair],' the 28-year-old constantly assures anyone who'll listen. During filming he's been known to not wash it for up to six weeks to give it what he dubs a 'greasy and medieval' appearance. He's also been spotted hiding it under a wig to play other roles, or popping it into a 'man bun' to disguise himself from fans. Clearly the hair's a downside of the job, although it mustn't be that bad because he's still sporting it and (in our opinion) it only adds to his heart-throb status.

The appeal of the screen star, born Christopher Catesby Harington, extends far beyond his mane, however. While he doesn't like getting his kit off, Kit flexed his surprisingly fabulous

STILL GOT HOPE

Major GOT plot spoiler ahead! For those in shock at the season five finale, there's still hope – and not just because Kit's kept his Jon Snow hair. He's also been seen in Belfast, where the cast are preparing for the next season. Coincidence? We think not!

Kit's hairstyle has been a trademark from season one of Game of Thrones eight-pack in Pompeii last year, and he's about to show us his funny side in mockumentary 7 Days in Hell (see right). To put it frankly, the actor is keen to explore a whole different side of himself besides Jon Snow.

'I'm looking for movies,' he shares of where he hopes to go next. 'I'm in a very lucky place – I can turn things down and do what I want to do...'

[I'm going to] look for loads of different, strange and incredible work.'

The actor is currently filming western thriller Brimstone

– alongside Dakota Fanning – in a role he's taken over from Robert Pattinson, and will next year appear as a famous young Hollywood star who becomes entangled in a scandal in the drama The Death and Life of John F. Donovan.

'It's a big one, really exciting,' he says of the project.

Saying farewell to the small screen forever isn't necessarily the only way forward for the ambitious actor, who says he's happy on any screen and only hopes the gig will be as glorious as Mr Snow. 'I've landed a role of a lifetime and it has happened during my twenties and that's great. Hopefully there'll be another role of a lifetime down the line,' he says.

As for romance, considering his busy career, dating is something that has had to take a back seat. Besides a brief romance last year with Scottish actress Rose Leslie – the flame-haired beauty who played Jon's lover Ygritte in Game of Thrones – the star has been single since, but not because he's opposed to love.

'I'm a hopeless romantic, maybe to a fault at times, because it's gotten me into trouble,' he explains. 'But I love romance. I think it's one of the greatest pleasures in life.' Ladies, line up!

KIT CONQUERS COMEDY!

FLEXING HIS FUNNY BONE

Yes, Kit does get his shirt off during the marathon seven-day match

The question on everyone's lips when it comes to the sports spoof 7 Days in Hell is: does Jon Snow know anything about comedy? Well, he might not, but Kit does a dapper job as he serves up 'utterly thick English tennis player' Charles Poole in this 45-minute romp that details Wimbledon's longest-ever tennis match.

'I like farcical comedy... romantic comedy isn't really for me,' says Kit

'I had a great time doing it,' Kit says of the cameo-packed comedy – look out for Lena Dunham, Serena Williams and John McEnroe

Brie Larson, LeBron James

RATED MA15+ ★★★★★

Co-stars Amy Schumer and Bill Hader sure did get around when they visited Australia recently to promote this film. They were everywhere you looked! Similarly, Amy's character in Trainwreck - also called Amy - is happily promiscuous. Having had her father's negative view of monogamy drummed into her since she was a kid, adult Amy juggles several sexual partners - including her clueless, incredibly buff boyfriend Steven (played by pro-wrestler John Cena). She's unapologetic about her bed-hopping ways, but when Amy interviews nerdish sports surgeon Aaron Connors (Bill Hader) for a magazine assignment and finds herself wanting more than just casual sex, it forces her to question her very nature. Far too many laugh-out-loud moments to mention.

LAST CAB TO DARWIN

STARS Michael Caton, Jacki Weaver,
Mark Coles Smith

RATED M ★★★★★

It may feature two of Australia's finest veteran actors, but the real standout in this adaptation of the based-on-real-events stage play by Reg Cribb is Mark Coles Smith. As rascalion Tilly, he brings life to the tale of dying cab driver Rex (Michael Caton), who travels to Darwin in the hope of being legally euthanised. Although Rex hopes to shuffle off quietly on his own terms, Tilly is one of a handful of characters who force him to reconsider his approach to life - and death.

Here we go again. Although there hasn't been as rapid a turnaround as the recent Spider-Man reboots, this renewed attempt to make Fantastic Four happen is the least exciting Marvel-related project this year. Replacing Chris Evans, Jessica Alba and Co. are four younger models playing out the F4 origin story one more time. Watch as they learn how to use their super powers! Thrill as they do battle with a new-look Dr Doom (Toby Kebbell)! Wait for the inevitable X-Men crossovers!

LEO

JUL 24 - AUG 23

Stop, think and weigh up the pros and cons before taking action this week. Being single-minded is all well and good, but if you don't have the full picture, you could make a bad move. Focus on transforming all aspects of your life that no longer work to improve your overall wellbeing.

This week's mantra:

I take a balanced approach.

VIRGO

AUG 24 - SEP 23

This week will bring more energy your way and new ideas will flow from the 8th thanks to a visit from Mercury - make the most of it. No more putting off those decisions regarding close relationships - you've spent too long waiting for things to change. Step up and stand your ground.

This week's mantra:

I create my own destiny.

LIBRA

SEP 24 - OCT 23

Start living in the moment rather than always looking to the future. You know the past creates the present and the present creates your future, so the more you deal with unresolved issues now, the better tomorrow will be. Clear your life of negative people and do what makes you happy.

This week's mantra:

I put my needs first.

SCORPIO

OCT 24 - NOV 22

The best way to feel good within yourself is to ensure that everything you do and say comes from a place of integrity. If you follow this philosophy, you can expect to reap the benefits this week. If not, ask yourself what's holding you back and how you can turn things around.

This week's mantra:

Honesty is the best policy.

SAGITTARIUS

NOV 23 - DEC 21

It's full steam ahead with anything to do with your career this week. If things aren't working the way you'd like, you need to look at why - now is your time for change. The best way to make the right decisions is to trust your instincts and not ask others what you should do.

This week's mantra:

All systems go.

CAPRICORN

DEC 22 - JAN 20

Keep a hold on your emotions or you could find yourself behaving erratically. You don't want to be labelled as inconsistent in your career, so the more balanced you can be, the better. If you feel drained, take time out. A change in how you present yourself will also prove a positive move.

This week's mantra:

It's time for change.

AQUARIUS

JAN 21 - FEB 19

Taking the time to observe those around you will put you in a positive position moving forward. This includes seeing people's manipulative behaviour for what it is. Set boundaries regarding what does and doesn't work for you, rather than going with the group consensus.

This week's mantra:

I am moving forward.

PISCES

FEB 20 - MAR 20

Use this week to get to the bottom of a close friend's agenda. Because of your natural desire to keep the peace, you leave yourself open to being taken advantage of. As hard as it sounds, it's time to be more discerning when it comes to who you allow into your life.

This week's mantra:

I'm taking control.

ARIES

MAR 21 - APR 20

Expect a full-on week when anything could happen. If you've been thinking about taking your career or life in a new direction, now's the time. When crippling fear threatens to hold you back, take a deep breath and make the necessary decisions to turn your life around.

This week's mantra:

Time to go for it!

TAURUS

APR 21 - MAY 21

Expect some ups and downs as you embark on a major declutter of your life. This applies to personal relationships, too - sort out who you want in your life and who is holding you back. Keep a level head and don't allow guilt to get in the way of you taking this necessary action.

This week's mantra:

Change is good.

GEMINI

MAY 22 - JUN 21

This will prove to be an interesting week in more ways than one. A situation that's caused you grief needs to be seen for what it is and dealt with accordingly. Accepting yourself, warts and all, will help you go after what makes you happy and make decisions to that effect.

This week's mantra:

I know my strengths.

CANCER

JUN 22 - JUL 23

Trying to be perfect all the time is hard work - for you, and those around you. Tell it like it is, even if it lands you in an uncomfortable position. But don't get carried away - rather than making rash decisions that could find you in hot water, step back and reassess before you commit.

This week's mantra:

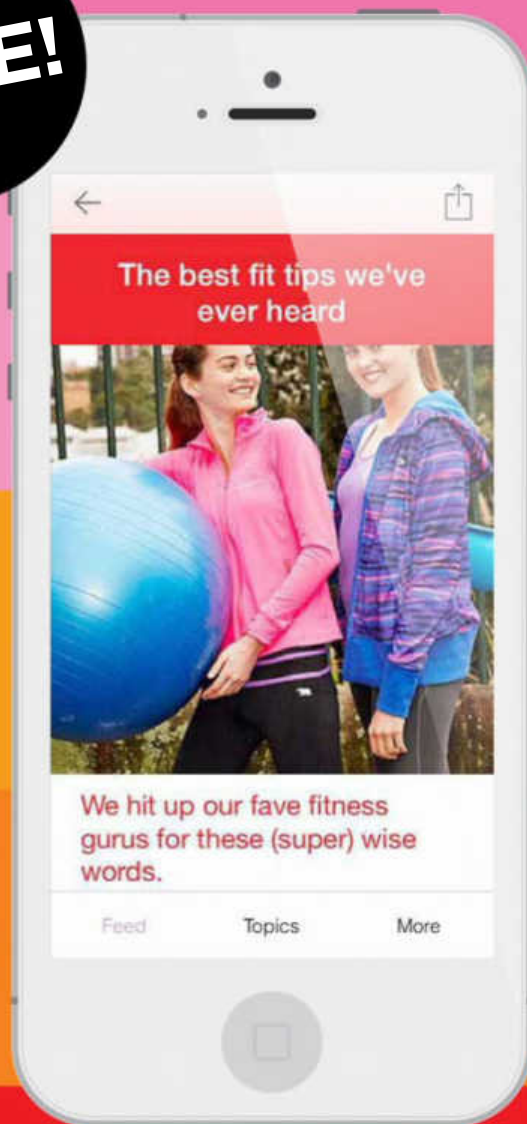

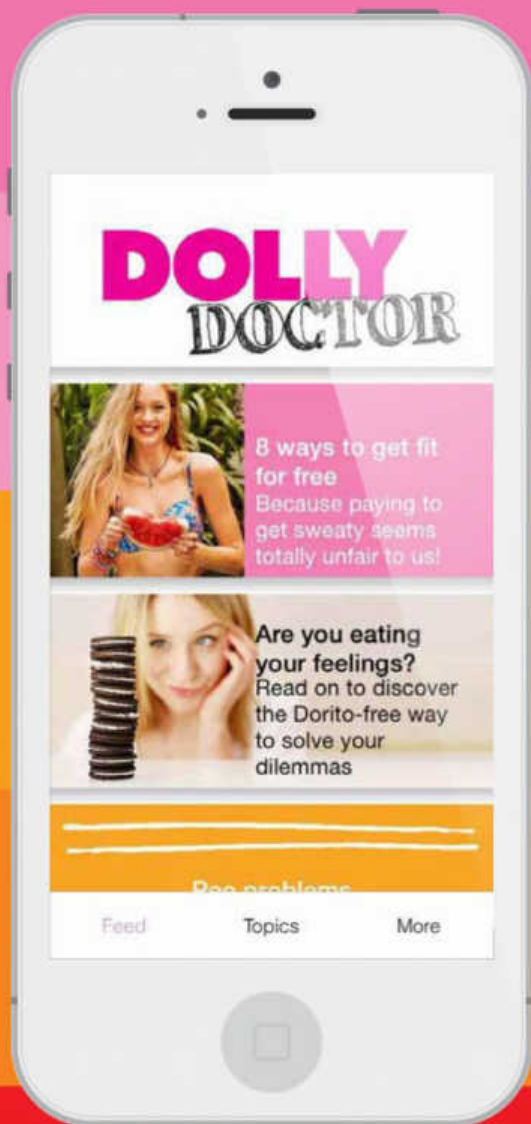

I consider the consequences.

DIVA OF THE WEEK

'She was acting like a bratty child. She left early because all eyes weren't on her,' a Paris Fashion Week attendee said of Naomi Watts at the July couture shows. The actress was said to have left onlookers shaking their heads in disbelief. 'Naomi was mad that she wasn't the centre of attention in a very famous crowd of heiresses and French actresses.'
